The Llannerch estate, near St Asaph, and the Gwysaney estate, Mold, were united in 1631 on the marriage of Anne, daughter of Sir Piers Mytton of Llannerch and Robert Davies (1616-1666) of Gwysaney. Their grandson Robert Davies (c. 1658-1710) of Llannerch, antiquary and book collector, greatly expanded the manuscript collections at Llannerch through purchase, gifts and transcription; the Liber Landavensis came to Llannerch through his wife Letitia. Robert Davies's great-grandson, John Davies (1737-1785), died childless and in 1789 the two estates were divided between his sisters: Llannerch went to Mrs Letitia Leo and Gwysaney to Mrs Mary Puleston (d. 1802), widow of Philip Puleston of Hafod-y-Wern, Wrexham. Mary Puleston's daughter, Frances, married Bryan Cooke (1756-1821) of Owston, Yorkshire. Their son and heir was Philip Davies Cooke (1793-1854). During the nineteenth century the Davies-Cooke family lived mainly at Owston. However in 1888, due to the ill-health of Philip Bryan Davies-Cooke (1832-1903), the family returned to Wales and made Gwysaney their main home again.

Hanes Gwarchodol | Custodial history

The Gwysaney manuscript collection had its beginnings in the library at Llannerch. This was in existence by the mid sixteenth century but was greatly developed by Robert Davies (c. 1658-1710). As part of the division of the Llannerch and Gwysaney estates in 1789 the library at Llannerch was also divided with a significant portion (at least 37 volumes) being permanently transferred to Gwysaney. At some point during the nineteenth century most of the collection at Gwysaney was removed to Owston Hall; Jeaffreson's catalogue of 1877 lists fifty-six manuscripts at Owston (that is [Gwysaney] MSS 1-49, 51-57; fifty-two of these were in the 1942 and 1947 deposits) as well as other documents later given Gwysaney MS numbers. The collection returned to Gwysaney when the Davies-Cooke family relocated there, by this time supplemented by manuscripts from Hafod-y-Wern and Owston and by more recent manuscripts relating to the Gwysaney estate. A total of eighty-nine manuscripts (numbered 1-94, with gaps) were deposited in the National Library of Wales by Philip Tatton Davies-Cooke of Gwysaney in 1942 (NLW MSS 17110E, 17115E and 17126D) and by his son Major P. R. Davies-Cooke in 1947 (the remaining 86 manuscripts). The manuscripts were withdrawn by P. R. Davies-Cooke in April 1959 in order to be valued and then sold. The Welsh and family manuscripts only (52 in number) were purchased by the Library; the remainder were then sold at auction at Sotheby's in June 1959, with the Library purchasing a single further volume.

The Gospel of St Matthew and a compilation, [c. 1120]-[c. 1133], of copies of charters, saints' Lives and other records and literary material relating to the medieval diocese of Llandaf. The text of the earliest charters appears to date from c. 500, and additions have been made up to c. 1619, but the bulk of the historical, legal and hagiographical material was copied and compiled under the auspices of bishop Urban (consecrated in 1107), with the purpose of using the historical and legal record to provide his newly-styled diocese of Llandaf with antecedents that would assist his efforts to convince the papacy of the ancient primacy of the bishopric over its neighbours, Hereford and St Davids, and also to define its position in relation to the metropolitan claims of Canterbury.

Nodyn | Note [generalNote]:

Foliation: foliated in pencil in 1980 i-iii, 1-127, 128-129; ff. i-iii and 128-9 are modern paper flyleaves, with a medieval parchment flyleaf guarded on f. iii; ff. 1-4 and 127 are leaves from other medieval manuscripts reused as flyleaves, perhaps 15 cent.; quires 3-15 (ff. 13-118) were foliated [9]-120 in the top right-hand corner c. 1476; ff. 5-12 (quire 2) were numbered 1-8 by a hand of 15 or 16 cent.; the medieval foliation points to the loss of three leaves after f. 47, the loss of two leaves somewhere between ff. 54 and 57 and the loss of one leaf between ff. 111 and 114; where the corners of leaves are defective, a hand of 16 or 17 cent. has here and there tried to make good the medieval foliation, incorrectly on ff. 57-58 and probably on f. 56; another hand of the same period has made good the foliation on ff. 29-31; ff. 29-113 (quires 5-14) are foliated 1-85 in the lower right-hand corner by another hand of 16 or 17 cent. (not later than 1612); Gwenogvryn Evans continued this foliation from f. 114 to the end; ff. 119-126 (quire 16) are paginated 1-16 by a hand of perhaps 17 cent.; a faint pencil foliation of 19 or 20 cent. in the top right-hand corners begins with f. iii and omits f. 43, and coincides with the 1980 foliation from f. 44; column numbers 1-367 were written by Gwenogvryn Evans from f. 29 to f. 126 verso. A concordance of the significant foliations and column numbers is given by Daniel Huws in idem, Medieval Welsh manuscripts, 127.

Nodyn | Note [generalNote]:

Written space: quire 1 (ff. 1-4) c. 290 x c. 290 mm. in two columns of c. 70 lines; quire 2 (ff. 5-12) 245 x 160 mm. in two columns of 34 lines; quires 3-14 (ff. 13-113) 245 x 160 mm. in two columns, normally of 35 lines; quire 15 (ff. 114-118) c. 260 x 180 mm., c. 40 long lines; quire 16 (ff. 119-126) 195 x 130 mm., 47 long lines.

Nodyn | Note [generalNote]:

Script: Written in a textualis rotunda in two main hands: hand A, ff. 48-112 verso, and hand B, ff. 29-47 verso, 50 verso-51; some additions, glosses and corrections written in English cursive book script (ff. 114 verso, 115, 116-118, 119-127 verso), English cursive documentary (ff. i-iv verso, 113-114 verso, 115, 115 verso, 118 recto-verso) and secretary hand (f. 118 verso) in other hands, 12 and 13 cent.; many marginal annotations, 15 and 16 cent., in many hands. For the identification and classification of the hands, and a comparison with the schema adopted by Gwenogvryn Evans, see Daniel Huws in idem, Medieval Welsh manuscripts, 134-143, 150-154.

Nodyn | Note [generalNote]:

Images: a considerable number of manicules throughout, mostly probably [1476x1478] by David Llewelyn, treasurer of Llandaf; representations of papal seals on ff. 38 verso, 42 (both Honorius II) and 55 (Calixtus II); and a number of later pen-trials.

Nodyn | Note [generalNote]:

Ink: all hands dark brown, except for hands Pb and Pc (ff. 115 verso-117 verso, and parts of ff. 115, 118 and 118 verso), which are light brown, and hands O (part of f. 115) and Q (parts of f. 118 recto and verso), which are black. Rubrics by the same hands in red, notably by hand B (ff. 29-111); for details of the rubrication, see Daniel Huws in idem, Medieval Welsh manuscripts, 143-44.

NLW MS 17110iiE [RESTRICTED ACCESS]. vtls006167857	Item - Liber Landavensis old covers	[c. 1120]x1696, 2007	Dimensions: lower cover 320 x 230 mm. Dimensions: 314 x 215 mm. The covers were bound at NLW in 2007 onto a spine covered in brown goatskin with five false bands, with a false book block between the covers. The gilt-bronze figure was re-attached to the volume with brass nuts and bolts in 2007.
	Natur a chynnwys Scope and content: Oak covers, formerly covered with a thin layer of silver-plate, of which only two small pieces remain. The lower cover is the only remaining part of the pre-1696 binding, and is probably original; cut into it is a sunken panel 283 x 187 mm., with a chamfered edge stopped on the inside by a bead; in the centre of the panel, originally attached by three rivets, is a gilt-bronze (copper-alloy) image of Christ in Majesty 171 x 114 x 300 mm., which was made in England, 13 cent.; it has replaced an earlier ornament, probably also a Christ in Majesty, and has been associated with the volume since at least 1659, and probably since the late medieval period. The upper cover was replaced by Robert Davies when he had the volume re-bound in 1696 (an inscription in the sunken panel reads 'Librum hunc temporis injurias passum novantiquo tegmine muniri curavit / R.D. / Ao 1696'); the marks of use suggest that it is of considerably older origin. The manuscript was re-bound, 15 or 16 cent., and again at the British Museum in 1892. It was unbound again at NLW in 2006, and the old covers were then considered unsuitable for re-housing the manuscript. For exhibition purposes, the 1892 case-binding with its oak boards has been placed on a false book-block of paper, coloured to replicate the original. Nodyn Note [generalNote]: Title based on contents. Nodyn Note [generalNote]: Preferred citation: NLW MS 17110iiE. Lleoliad ffisegol Physical location: ARCH/MSS (GB0210)

NLW MS 21608D [RESTRICTED ACCESS]. vtls006865626	File - Brut Chronicle Natur a chynnwys / Scope and content: A fifteenth-century manuscript of the Brut in English with continuation to 1450, written probably in the 1460s or 1470s in the West Midlands of England (indicated by the dialect) or possibly in Wales.The text is the English translation of the Brut to 1333 followed by the usual continuation to 1377. The continuation for 1377-1450 (at which point the text ends abruptly) is, except for the years 1415-19, that of the unusual text printed by J. S. Davies in 1856, known as Davies's Chronicle. A quire and a half are wanting at the end of the manuscript; originally no doubt the text continued to 1461, as does Davies's Chronicle. The Brut with its continuation was printed by Caxton in 1480, and then frequently until	[1460x1479]	200 ff.Original binding of tawed skin over boards.

	1530. Among additions to Brie's text of the Brut are the epitaphs of the Welsh and the English clerk on Llywelyn ap Gruffydd. On a blank page is a Latin epitaph for Mathew Goch, previously only known in a shorter form from a single manuscript (f. 181 verso). The manuscript is on paper, written by three or more hands, and as pastedowns and flyleaf has three leaves of a fine English noted missal of the twelfth century. Nodyn / Note [generalNote]: Title based on contents. Nodyn / Note [generalNote]: Previously Gwysaney MS 20. Nodyn / Note [generalNote]: Preferred citation: NLW MS 21608D. Lleoliad ffisegol / Physical location: ARCH/MSS (GB0210)
